Using The O to create body, volume and movement

- Position The O pod on a flat surface. Plug into the mains power and turn on using the power switch found at the rear of the pod
- The power indicator will glow and remain blue
- To heat your selected roller, carefully place it into The O pod, flat side down, so the heat indication spot faces up
- The O pod will beep once and the ready indicator will flash green (4 times)
- Your roller will reach the optimum temperature within four seconds and the pod will beep 4 times when the roller is ready for use, the ready indicator will remain green and the heat indication spot will glow red
- The O roller will be cool to touch. Remove the roller from The O pod and position in your hair.
- When the roller is removed from the pod and positioned in your hair it will continue to heat up until it reaches full working temperature
- Repeat for each roller, leave to cool in your hair and lock in style.
- Once cool, the heat indication spot at centre of The O roller will turn black and can be removed from your hair and reheated as needed
- When you have finished styling turn off using the power switch and unplug from the mains

Operation Failure

In the unlikely event that your Cloud Nine® The O fails to work please follow this guide:

First check your Cloud Nine® The O and the power supply are switched on.

If the rollers fail to heat, switch off and wait 10 seconds before switching on again.

Should your Cloud Nine® The O Pod, cable or plug, become damaged in any way we recommend you stop using it immediately and return it for repair to our service centre.

Under no circumstances should you or anyone else tamper with the product as this will invalidate your warranty.

Remember

It's important that you never use your Cloud Nine® The O for anything other than styling hair as that what it has been specifically designed to do. Using the product for any other purpose could be dangerous.
